WORKERS

Both oil and gas symbolize values, such as light, heat, movement and safety, short of which, we could not imagine the modern world we live in. It is precisely the labour of the numerous staff of LUKOIL that underpins all these words: responsibility, experience and professionalism.

Our company has managed to accumulate an important potential consisting of well-trained staff, to ensure knowledge transfer from generation to generation, to welcome young and talented members into our staff and to produce innovative ideas and solutions.

We are paying our due respect to our fellow veterans, the ones who have pioneered to the uncharted terrains, the ones who have discovered and have mastered over the new oilfields.

It is our efforts that have granted us the success that the Company is living today. By relying on your extensive experience and by applying the latest technologies, LUKOIL has managed to become the only international energy company coming from Russia to be present in more than 40 countries around the world.

On the occasion of this holiday, I would like to offer you my wholehearted wishes for success in all areas of life.
